May Fly Here Richest Playwright

KASER AIDE ISSUES EDICT WAR PERLS

LONDON, July 27.—The most widely talked of writer in the world was 76 Tuesday. Yet George Bernard Shaw was born on July 26, 1856, in Dublin, Ireland. For nearly a half a century, George Bernard Shaw made little headway with his plays. Some of them lay unacted, except for a few times, for a quarter of a century. Now, still keen of mind, knowing that many persons at their prime, George Bernard Shaw is the wealthiest playwright in the world.

General Kurt Von Schleicher, Veteran Breaker of Kings, Says Country Must be Released.

Associated Press Staff Writer
BERLIN, July 27.—The voice of General Kurt Von Schleicher, veteran of the Kaiser's armies, breaker of 1800 Prussian kings, behind the throne of Von Papen government, was out in the open in the Reichstag election campaign today, with a note of defiance for the world.

In an address he served notice that unless Germany is granted equally and released from limitations of the post-war treaties she will proceed to establish her own security by reorganization of her armed forces.

Security Demanded
Secretary General he said, could only be obtained by the powers seeking down their armaments to Germany's level or by organizing a new general treaty by reorganization.

The provisions of the Versailles Treaty, covering disarmament, he said, "make it obligatory to organize."

Syndicate Moves to Guard City by Furnishing Food

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 27.—Thomas Hickey, chairman of the committee of citizens with three other members, J. McGrath, Arthur Smith and James Johnson, were arrested today charged with rioting. The entire committee were fined $1,000 each, $1,000 for each of the three.

Negotiations for the loan were property of the Citizens' Committee before he left for the Imperial Economic conference at Ottawa.

After his departure, the riotous unemployed, who had defied the assembly, were forthcoming Monday, the same day the riotous unemployed, and before midnight the greater number of demonstrators were released to be on their way home.

69 BOYS IN BOARD NAWY SHIP PERISH

Today

Italy's Business. One Free Port. Cheap Money. Santos-Dumont.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1932)

H. C. BIVWATER, British naval expert, says Italy is building warships in secret, craters and destroyers, of phenomenal speed.

The same Mr. Bivwater criticized United States 10,000-ton cruisers, which he said were "inferior to the United States of the world."

He also "accused" the United States of being "inferior to the world, electrically in the world, with high explosive power, to be launched against ships by entirely new methods."

It is not likely that Maxwell is building his ships "inferior." He has always said the rest of Europe: "You attend to Brisbane your business, and I'll attend to Italy's business," and unlike United States, says no one's business.

Violence May Follow Wake of Elections

Farmer Convention Looking Forward to Serious Future Events

By FRANK FLAHERTY
SASKATON, Sask., July 27.—With their eyes fixed on a common goal, the last day of a socialist state, organized farmers and organized laborers of Saskatchewan met in a joint political convention here today. For the past two days the two groups have met separately and last night wound up their general conventions. Chief business at today's meeting is the election of a political league for the coming year.

Sending a prospect of wholesale evictions and distress tax collections in the next few months, the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, stand ready to resist forcible collection by whatever means are available.

Recent Rains Encourage Peace Farmers For Good Crops

Local Boy Narrowly Beaten in Trials

Two of the greatest battles for Canadian honors and recognition by the Canadian Olympic committee came at the stadium in Hamilton, as seen before. One was when Bert Pearson, Hamilton schoolboy, captured the 200 metres final in sensational stretch duel with Harold Wright, Edmonton star. No. 61. Pearson is shown hitting the race in front of Wright, with Jimmy Ball, second from left, in third place, well outdistanced by the flying leaders. Lower left, the 400 metres final, won by Alex. Wilson, posted by Wright. Edwards to win first place in the 800 metres. At the right, Jack Norwood, who captured the 1000 metres final, is shown clearing the hurdle, to establish a new Canadian record in the running high jump.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27

WILL STICK TO BUSINESS

The delegates from Britain and from the Free State agree that they will not transfer the truth building, St. John's, between those two countries from Dublin and London to Ottawa.

Suggestions to the contrary, this is in line with what was to be expected. Whoever imagined they would fight the quarrel across the Atlantic and hold up the proceedings of the conference while they wrangled, did little credit to the good sense of the delegates.

But it may well be that a basis for settlement will be found in the outcome of the Conference, with no reference to the delegates from the Free State. The delegates from the Free State, and if they find in the discussions at the conference a basis for settlement, the Free State is bound to be re-opened upon their political differences.

SLOWER BUT SAFER?

Flying the Atlantic in a series of hops, via Iceland and Greenland, is less spectacular than taking the ocean in a single jump.

For that reason Capt. Gronau, the German airman, has drawn rather less acclaim than he deserved. He has now made the passage three times by the northern route.

The broken journey across the northern rim of the ocean is of course longer than a straight flight from Newfoundland to Ireland, and the stops mean lost time. As a speed record the round-about course is hopeless.

But it is a feat, and a feat that is well worth the effort which ocean-flying is attempted. The record of Capt. Gronau seems to suggest so. And if less dangerous, it is rather likely to be the first route over which trans-oceanic planes will fly on a schedule.

Airmen are different, but the majority of people who have a healthy regard for their lives, and it is to this great majority the flight must be recommended if they are to compete with the steamship in carrying passengers across the Atlantic.

A WORLD SETTLEMENT MUST COME

It probably is not far away that the Senator Brown speaks unfeelingly for the United States, when he urges a conference to discuss the building of a world settlement, re-establishment of the gold standard, monetization of silver, "and possibly other questions," which latter phrase is the key to the Senator's attitude.

These questions are not inter-related, all touch upon factors which belong to bring about "the new men we are in," and it is quite clear that some at least of them could not be considered without also discussing others in the list.

Debt-cancellation, for instance, is only one idea among others, and the Senator's attitude is to be dealt with at the same time. And the Senator's attitude is to be dealt with at the same time. And the Senator's attitude is to be dealt with at the same time.

It is also coming to be realized, fortunately, that the future is of more importance than the past. National debts have to be compromised or cancelled, money trading has departed from its old position, and the world is in relation to tariffs, there is a growing feeling that the nations reconcile themselves to the necessities of the case and get through with the job better.

Senator Brown's speech, an indication that in the United States, as elsewhere, national self-sufficiency is giving way to a recognition that no country can prosper on a policy of "bigger my neighbor," nor on a policy of commercial isolation.

THE SINGLE UNEMPLOYED MAN

The Dominion Government has apparently taken no steps as yet to meet the situation that will be created on Monday next when Edmonton and Calgary, and perhaps other cities also, are due to cut single unemployed men off the relief lists.

Ottawa, of course, is a busy place at the present time, and the ordinary duties of administrative nature must be expected to get less than the situation that will be created on Monday next when Edmonton and Calgary, and perhaps other cities also, are due to cut single unemployed men off the relief lists.

But the question of what to do with or for the single unemployed man is not new, nor does it come under the heading of routine business. It is a question to which municipalities and provincial governments have been giving the attention of the federal authorities for the past year. If they have not yet formulated any plan for dealing with the subject there is a growing feeling that the Conference has now absorbing all their time and energies. They have had a year or more in which to make plans and get them under way.

The practical question is: What are these men to do? Ottawa seems to take the philosophy view that they should not get out and run around, but should be kept in the city where they would be under control. But at present it amounts to telling the single unemployed man to go and work a miracle to create a wage-paying job for himself, without capital, and in many cases without other experience or technical training.

The fact there are not jobs for these men, search for them as they may. The harvest will provide work for some, when it comes. But the harvest is not here yet, and by the time it is, many of the unemployed will have died.

Our national "emergency" is no longer an emergency only. It is a national tragedy. A tragedy that is revealed in the men clinging to the bow cars of every passenger train, and in the swarms of transients loitering about the streets; and that shows itself at nearly every urban fire-fight, where a crowd has gathered to see the firemen at work.

The single unemployed man who has no relative to whom he can look for support is only one of the thousands in this tragedy, but the decision that the cities can no longer take care of him makes his position worse than that of the others. If he can look for support in any form, he is not a single, unemployed, homeless man, just what it is to become of them?

Forty Years Ago
From the Files of the Edmonton Bulletin

The suspension of a number of Government officials at Edmonton, within the past week, has given rise to considerable comment. In two cases notice merely of suspension was given without any reason being assigned, and in a third a reason was given and a partial enquiry made.

This was the case of the postmaster, A. D. Osborne, and the reason given by assistant inspector of postoffices A. W. Jones, who came to inquire into the matter, was that on a certain occasion Mr. Osborne had been seen carrying a gun on the streets of Edmonton, and defying the government.

The alleged offence was during the attempted removal of the law office. Owing to all the suspensions occurring about the same time, the natural inference is that these were made for like cause, that is that the Government has seen fit to suspend, without enquiry, a number of its servants, the reason being that they conspired with the action of their fellow citizens in defending their rights.

Country Picture

By Edgar A. Gurnea
Last year upon a little perch
At I went riding by,
A quaint old man, with silver hair,
Used to nod to me as I passed by.

Where did he live, the day's work done,
They watched the setting of the sun.

The little farm they kept was trim,
The little yard was gay
With flowers and shrubs and plants,
As pictures were they

And oft the thought occurred to me
How very lonely they must be.

Now summer time is here once more,
Again I rode the road I fore,
But where they sat I notice that
The man alone is there.

And I know one winter day
God must have called the wife away.

Now I know I pass that house
When the cool breezes blow,
The summer flowers in evening hours,
But I think of her

Who looked so lonely at his side.

"Yes," said the lady yesterday, "I write poetry."
"How really devastating," she said, "does your poetry yield my return?"

"Yes," said the young man, with an injured air, "I practically all returns."—Awarer.

The Passing Show

Life is a thing of contradictions.

Hotel Registration

QUESTION—We have come into an unexpected inheritance lately, for the first time, we are going to a large hotel to a well-known shore resort. We have lived in a remote country village since our marriage in 1928, and we know nothing of crowded life except what we have read in a thousand books. When registering at the hotel, does my husband sign for both, "Richard F. Jones and Wife," or "and family," or "I register on my own name, Mr. R. F. Jones or Mary Lee Jones?" My son, Richard, Jr., aged 17, will sign for himself, of course, but what about my 15-year-old daughter? Does she register separately?

—MRS. J.

ANSWER—It is not good form, for a man to register, "and wife," or "and family" after his own name. That is a loose-potential case. Each person is a separate entity. The older Richard may register Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Jones, Little Valley, Neb., or he may sign his own name, Richard F. Jones (with-out the Mrs.) and his wife may register her, social name, Mrs. Richard F. Jones, or if she is an advanced feminist, she may sign her legal name, Mary Lee Jones. The grown son and daughter should sign their own signatures on the register, that "Miss Isabel Jones" and "Richard F. Jones, Jr."

Some hotels, here and abroad, require personal slip signatures, which are the best legal proof of residence on the date registered.

PARENTS SHOULD RECALL YOUTH

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 16. My parents think that I am too young to have dates with boys and will not let a boy come to the house. They will not let me dance, or go to swimming if there are boys along, or go out riding if there are boys in the car, or do any of the other things that girls and boys do. Do I have no friends and am very lonely. Do you think my parents are right in the way they treat me? POLLY.

ANSWER—Perhaps it is because it is vacation time, when all the other boys and girls are having good times, that makes it seem particularly hard for a girl to be cut out of all the fun, but in the last week I have literally had hundreds of letters that are practically duplicates of this one. They tell me the same story of over-protective parents who cannot realize that the girls that they have always thought of as mere babies have grown up and have reached the time when they are entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and in a certain extent, at least, to follow the customs of their own day and generation.

It is easy to understand the parents' position. They have heard so many lurid tales of flaming youth that they think of the girls and boys of today as an abandoned set of young hellions who spend their time indulging in dissipated orgies, and they picture the modern world as a sign of iniquity filled with nameless temptations, and they are determined to protect their little eve lambs as well as they can and keep them safe within the home fold.

But, in the first place, fathers and mothers are unduly alarmed.

The modern girls and boys are quite much what girls and boys were in their days, and what they do is apparently much worse than of really. In beach pyjamas, naked, without a shirt, but modestly in slippers, a mallet of caution and not of fact. A South Sea blunder with a string of shells around her neck and a hibiscus flower in her hair is as fully dressed according to her standards as grandmas was when she had on twelve starched petticoats. Riding in an automobile at sixty miles an hour is really, when you come to think of it, no worse than jostling along behind old Dobbin used to be.

As for temptations, the world has always been full of them, and they are the same old assortment. There hasn't even been a new one invented since the triangle in the Garden of Eden. There has always been drink and women and love and passion and the lure of the promiscuous path. Every girl and boy that ever lived have faced these and stood or fallen according to the strength that their parents had bred in them.

And for keeping children unacquainted with the world, it can't be done. They have got to live in it. Mother and father can't always hold them by the hand and protect them, and so the sooner they learn to stand alone and fend for themselves the better off they are.

Parents may well remember also that this age is a forcing house in which everything comes to early maturity, and that a girl of 16 or 17 is as old in reality as her parents who are in their 40s. When you have a bath mitt which has a filling of alfalfa meal, so that the water soft so that it lathers easily and benefits both your face and your hands.

WATCH MERCURY IN SUMMER, TOO

If the young mother thinks that winter is the time to watch the thermometer, I should like to remind her that summer is quite as important.

Nothing can guide her about the baby's clothing as well as a thermometer. Her own feelings are not to be depended upon. She may be warm on a cool day and cool on a hot day. It would be a mistake to think that the baby is the same way.

In the first place I should ask the doctor about what weight of shirt he recommends for summer use. All cotton of gauge weight is better than a cotton-and-silk weave. Some doctors still advise the use of the "band" in some form of a shirt. The kind with the shoulder straps being preferred. The rubber band is the new idea is not to bind abdominal muscles but to allow them freedom to strengthen themselves.

In summer most specialists recommend only the thin "band" in place of a shirt. But a shirt should be handy so that the wind blows up cool it is there to slip over bare little shoulders.

If it is the same with outer clothing, to be in style, a baby under eight months doesn't own a dress except for those occasions when he must be presentable in public.

It should have a few on hand, but the dress as the "peace of resistance" of a young baby wardrobe has taken a back seat.

This is particularly true in summer when his regular uniform will be a band and diaper.

HERE ARE BASIC FACTS

Let him go in bare legs and feet. Too. But have really soft little shoes and socks, or long stockings, depending on his age, to slip on when the thermometer drops. If mornings are very cool there is the little knitted sweater also to keep him from chilling.

In a city there is not likely to be so many sudden changes. But in the suburbs or country, or at mountain or seaside resorts a greater variety of emergency clothing is necessary.

On roasting days in town, a baby over eight months can do very well through the hot hours with nothing on but a diaper. This is, of course, a thing his (or her) mother must think about. He must not be in a wind, he must be perfectly well, and again it depends on that thermometer.

Let us urge that you get specific instructions from the doctor. No two babies are alike and they vary in age and reactions. And again temperatures vary greatly even in the same section.

But we have discovered that summer complaint is aggravated by too much, not too little dressing. It is well to remember that. And by failure to provide for quick changes of weather.

Let me urge, too, that you watch the sun these days. In midday, when a little sun goes a great way—another thing to be done, if possible.

Of all things with the woman's make dark streaks. Before a successful wave can be put on each hair, it must be freed from all traces of the outdoor lotion. But all hair dyes change color when the hair is waved, however. Before having a permanent it is therefore necessary to tell the hairdresser frankly just what has been put on one's hair. Where there is any doubt as to the result of the waving, a test curl should be made.

There are some rare cases when a very old condition of the system causes the hair to turn from light to dark after a permanent wave. Yellow streaks in white hair are also sometimes due to this cause. It is difficult to observe discoloration from internal causes, but a skillful hairdresser can improve the appearance of the hair by using suitable liniments.

It always pays in the end to have permanent waving done by an experienced operator. This is especially true of blonde and gray hair which must have special handling to prevent darkening in streaks. If suitable bleaching lotion must be applied while the hair is still wet or the curling rods. If this preparation is not taken the hair is very likely to develop yellowish streaks. A dingy yellow color may also result from quick drying of the hair with too hot air and strong lights.

DISCOLORATION AFTER PERMANENT WAVING

Some of my readers are hesitating to enjoy the comfort of permanent waves because they are afraid that the color of their hair will be affected by the process. Perhaps they have friends whose hair has become streaky or changed color completely after being treated in this way. Of course, hair does come from the scalp and is not a part of the waving system for the discoloration of their hair, but in the great majority of cases the fault is their own. They have concentrated on the hairdresser's face, the fact that they have been using a hair restorer on the hair which is not the permanent waving. It is strange how some women come home from the hairdresser with auburn hair and find themselves unwillingly asserting an untruth of this kind, but every hairdresser has met such customers.

Streakiness in brown hair due to permanent wave may be due to the previous use of a hair restorer with a slight base. The combination of the two is the cause.

Perhaps the most universally known cause of this stain was Anne Hathaway, wife of the immortal Shakespeare. She lived and died at Stratford-on-Avon, in County Warwick.

The line of Hathaways in America is estimated by Nicholas in Dorchester, Mass., in 1838, trace their lineage to the Gloucestershire Hathaways, who bore the coat of arms above reproduced.

Descendants of all these pinpoints are now widely scattered.

Canadian dairy factories set up a new record for production of cream butter in 1931 with an output of 223,802,533 pounds valued at $60,178, a decrease in value from the previous year, but an increase of 29 per cent in quantity.

Electric refrigeration on Canadian farms is reported to be profitable in increasing revenue from marketing of fresh meats and dairy products.

A new apple canning process, developed by a manufacturing firm at Saint John, New Brunswick, is expected to revolutionize apple drying and turn out a product of exceptional quality.

Take a healthy permanent wave if it is properly treated.

Streakiness in the hair after waving is sometimes due to lack of experience in the operator. For instance, some operators do not know that after the hair has been treated with a liquid dye, it should not be curled with heat until the following day. If this rule is ignored and the hair is marcelled at once dark streaks are likely to show where the iron was used and the only remedy is a series of hot-rod treatments. It is safer to have a finger wave after having the hair dyed.

When the hair is streaky from rebleaching or other causes before the permanent wave is put in, it will, of course, be just as streaky afterward, if not more so.

The streaks may be bleached or touched up to match the rest of the hair. The best waves are naturally those that are put into good, healthy heads of hair, so that before making hair a permanent she should make sure that her hair is in first-class condition.

This is a plan taken from Nathalia, in Wales. Families bearing the surname have lived hundreds of years in England in Gloucestershire, Wiltshire and Warwick.

Co-Operation Needed To Make Organization Successful in Japan

Rev. F. E. Mercer Gives Interesting Address to Labor Council

Delivering a speech interspersed with amusing anecdotes, Rev. F. E. Mercer, secretary of the Japanese branch of the Canadian Labor Union, spoke to a large gathering of members of the organization in the Labor Hall Monday evening.

Rev. Mercer has been connected for some time with church and educational work in Tokyo, and is a present touring through Canada on his way home to England.

The speaker was introduced by President Ernest Roper, and for two hours spoke entertainingly on present conditions in the Far East.

GROUP IDEA
Dealing with the Labor movement in Japan, Rev. Mercer informed his audience that the movement there was dissimilar in many respects to the organization which existed in Canada.

In the Orient, he said, the labor movement is in its infancy. These various groups refusing to unite in one cooperative body.

The Japanese were inclined to follow their leaders and follow them blindly, this inclination being detrimental to the growth of the labor movement in that part of the world.

Dealing with the labor movement in the world is dependent on the fact that we stand together for some time with church and educational work in Tokyo, and is a present touring through Canada on his way home to England.

SMALL SITUATION
As far as the trade union movement was concerned, a similar situation existed in Japan.

Various divisions of trade unionism were divided into two camps, one being a "vagrant" and the other and it was extremely hard to secure co-operation.

However, he said, the trade union movement was progressing in Japan, and he hoped to see it making better reference to Communism, Rev. Mercer stated that propaganda was proving harmful.

Turning his attention to the recent attack on Japan by China, the speaker gave it as his opinion that Japan was not so much a victim as she was a perpetrator.

Referring to the Japanese invasion of Manchuria, he said that the Japanese government officials had realized their mistake.

ATLANTIC ANS BY BILL LEWIS

EATON PITCHES FOUR-HIT BOMB TO BEAT ROYALS

Just when a goodly section of the populace had decided there was nothing to it but the Royals for the Senior Amateur Baseball League championship, along came Phil Henry Roy and his Arctic last night and knocked all those ideas from here to Halifax. Yesterday, they whipped the Royals 5-2 and now the folks have been at start figuring all over again which team will take the title.

One thing about it now is that there is only one team that can tomorrow night—but that's a big enough hole for any prognosticator I might render you.

It was a tough old duel the teams went into last night, as a win meant the championship for the Royals and a win for the Arctic meant they were running for the title. They battled and fought hard, but it was the South Siders who that pulled out a win, after leading for most of the route.

So now you can take your choice in the final, and you can be very far wrong, no matter which team wins.

Buck Eaton was the central figure in the Arctic triumph, pitching a brand of four-hit ball that would not possibly be beaten, and that brought to mind the fact that he just rounded the 300 mark in the 10th year to gain the title to the Arctic a lot of good in the league.

He hit runners current and final in the seventh and final game tomorrow in the hope of making it two quick wins in a row for the title.

Another player who just performed his best in this playoff series was a very mediocre performer during the season. Former center-fielder, Phil Henry Roy, who has been a ball player since 1918, and finished the league campaign with his lowest batting average in many seasons.

He changed his hitting stance back to his old style in this playoff, however, and began hitting as of old. Last night he hit the four hits of Eaton—once a triple and the other two buggers.

The feeling between players was running high in the game as was shown by the fact that Roy was slugged by Roy in the sixth inning, but it was different than it has been all season.

I never have seen two clubs that were so determined to win ball games as this pair in the present playoff.

One of the spectators at last night's encounter was Billy Rankin, former Edmonton ball player, grand slam and Olympic boxer whom many remember well.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MAKES CHANGES

NEW YORK, July 27.—Some of the results of a conference of National League umpires and President Heydler, during which various problems were discussed and rules interpreted, were made known today in a league communication.

The officials expected to make changes in the rules to discourage blocking off in the outfield.

A general interpretation of one of the rules allowed a runner to advance two bases on an overthrow into a state of confusion was agreed upon.

Another interpretation decided that the ball is still in play when a third strike punts the catcher and hits the umpire. If the ball lodges in the umpire's mask or clothing, the batter is out, and the first base, and all base runners advance one base.

WHEAT SURGES UPWARD AGAIN; GAINS 2 CENTS

WINNIPEG, July 27.—The Winnipeg grain market surged upward again today as the result of heavy export reports, short covering in July futures and unfavorable crop news. The wheat futures finished from 3/16 to 1/2 cent higher. The higher wheat futures were higher at 4 1/2, and the higher wheat at 4 1/2 to 1/2.

Except for a slight pause around midday, the wheat market continued to rise steadily. At one point prices actually sank below the previous closing figures. Then it advanced and mounted steadily to the highest level since the first few days in June.

Foreign markets were estimated at more than 100,000 bushels. This profit was coupled with short covering by local and foreign traders, gave the market a real boost, and the volume was fairly heavy.

The Canadian government report issued last Tuesday was also looked upon as bullish.

Bromfield indicated that Europe's import requirements for the coming year would be as great as a year ago owing to damage caused to western European crops by rain and rot, reducing the surplus to a negligible figure in many instances.

Demand for cash wheat is headstrong and there was good business in the top grades. Speculation on most contracts was against July contracts. Wheat delivered through the clearing houses amounted to 300,000 bushels, moved from Canada to foreign countries, and 100,000 bushels of wheat were exported to Europe.
